

Who's who?

Caroline Bristow is the Director of CSCP. She has extensive experience of teaching in state schools around the UK, and worked with the Department of Education to lead on the creation of new qualifications during her time as a Classics and Religious Studies Subject Specialist at OCR. She has worked extensively on all aspects of the new edition of the CLC, with a special focus on the cultural background sections.

Lisa Hay is the Latin Learning Specialist at CSCP. She studied Latin and Ancient History at the University of St Andrews (with some Greek for fun) before completing her PGCE at Cambridge. She worked as a Classics teacher for many years before joining CSCP. She now focuses on supporting teachers and learners, as well as authoring and editing content for the new CLC.

Ben Harris has worked in publishing for over 25 years, including as Cambridge University Press' Classics publisher from 2010 to 2017 during the development of the North American 5th edition of the CLC. He is now a freelance writer and editor.

Ingo Gildenhard is a Professor of Classics and the Classical Tradition at the University of Cambridge and is a specialist in Latin literature, Roman culture and classical reception. He served as an academic reviewer for the new edition of the CLC, and is a longstanding member of CSCP's Management Committee.

Sophie Hay is an archaeologist specialising in Pompeii. She was a Post-doctoral Research Associate at the University of Cambridge, and is a member of our Amarantus team. Sophie served as an academic reviewer for the new edition of the CLC – look out for her in Stage 12!

Yvonne Bolton is the Regional Development Manager for Schools and Colleges at our publisher, Cambridge University Press. Yvonne can help with all things related to ordering the textbook.

Caroline Musgrove is the Events, Outreach and Partnerships coordinator at CSCP. She holds a PhD in Classics from the University of Cambridge, and has served as an academic reviewer for the new edition of CLC.
